

Cluster of Security and Defence of Latvia

Published: 20.10.2020.

The Cluster strategy focuses on promotion of products of its participants to implement measures to rise exports and support collaboration with research institutions – while developing new products according to the needs of the Ministry of Defence, European Defence Agency and NATO's capacity development plans.

Cluster will create prerequisites for cluster participants successful work at the local and external target markets. In the framework of the cluster meetings with potential partners, product presentations in Latvia and abroad will be organised, an in-depth security and defence industry supply and demand analysis, supply chain systems research will be made. Cluster will enhance the availability of information and activate cooperation with potential partners and supply leaders. Cluster will provide with monitoring of the major target market research programmes and procurements, providing knowledge transfer to cluster participants onsite and offsite. The cluster will strengthen cooperation with educational institutions and research institutions to create the prerequisites for high value added, innovative product development according to needs of Latvian, international organisations and target markets.

FSDI Latvia welcomes the work done so far, but much more we need to do together to build a strong core and offers for security needs. Your experience and the invaluable contribution is essential success factor for reach of objectives of FSDI Latvia and the Cluster.
